Office of Student Mediation and Conflict Resolution

The Office of Student Mediation and Conflict Resolution came into being in Fall 2002. It provides an informal, timely, impartial, and confidential means of conflict resolution to students and the campus community. It is the goal of the office to foster a culture of community, safe and open dialogue, and encourage cooperative problem resolution. If you contact their office to address a specific conflict, they will: listen to your concerns, provide facilitation or mediation services when appropriate, value diversity, hear all perspectives, assist you in considering your options for resolution, and remain impartial to all parties involved. Services are confidential And no identifying records are kept.

Educating the university community and maintaining effective processes are important components of preventing conflicts from escalating, and can help enable university students and employees to effectively address adversity themselves. Training is available in alternative conflict resolution techniques, theory, and practice. Workshops are customized to fit specific needs. Recommendations may be made to improve processes that may inadvertently create conflicts, or inhibit informal resolution. Our hope is to create an environment that supports the early resolution of conflict.

UNIVERSITY HOUSING

University Housing is committed to providing a quality living and learning environment that both challenges and supports the personal, social, and academic development of our residents and their diverse communities.

Experience and extensive research nationwide has shown that academic success in the first year and beyond is directly linked to residing in an on-campus residence environment. In an effort to increase the academic success of our entering students, the University of Arkansas requires all freshmen under the age of 21, who do not reside with a parent, to live in an on-campus residence hall. Requests for exception to the freshman residency requirement may be made, based on severe financial or medical need. Contact University Housing for more information.

Each residence hall has a Resident Director. This individual is selected for his/her academic credentials and interest in helping others, as well as his/her ability to work well with college students. In addition, every area or floor is staffed by a Resident Assistant and an upperclassman, each with training, experience, and knowledge to answer students' questions and, more importantly, to help students find their own answers. Counselors in Residence (graduate assistants) provide short-term counseling for students living in the residence halls and University apartments, in response to personal, social, academic, and developmental needs. Assistant Directors are full-time, master's degree level, Residence Life professionals. They live on campus and are responsible for three to six residence halls. Access to residence halls is controlled by electronic card readers, which allow only residents and their escorted guests to enter.

Residential living offers several options: Male, female, graduate, or co-ed. Rooms are available for visually or hearing impaired students, as well as those who are physically challenged. Special-interest living options, such as honors programs, first year experience, substance-free, architecture, engineering, pre-med/science, business, and nursing, are also available to students. Additional information is available on the University Housing website, at <http://housing.uark.edu/>.

Each of the three separate dining facilities on campus is managed by Campus Dining Services and provides a natural setting for socializing with friends and enjoying a wide variety of high quality, nutritious meals. All students living in a residence hall, except for those living in a graduate-only facility or residing in summer school housing, are required to have a meal plan. There are several meal plans available to meet the needs of both on-campus and off-campus students. Learn more about Campus Dining Services online, at <http://dining.uark.edu/>.
